

Dea Sea Spa

Women's Wellness

During a study trip to Malta, we visited our project site in Sliema, a site originally built in 1657 as a watchtower to protect St Julian's Bay. Today, it is a prominent feature of the Sliema Promenade, offering stunning views of the coastline.

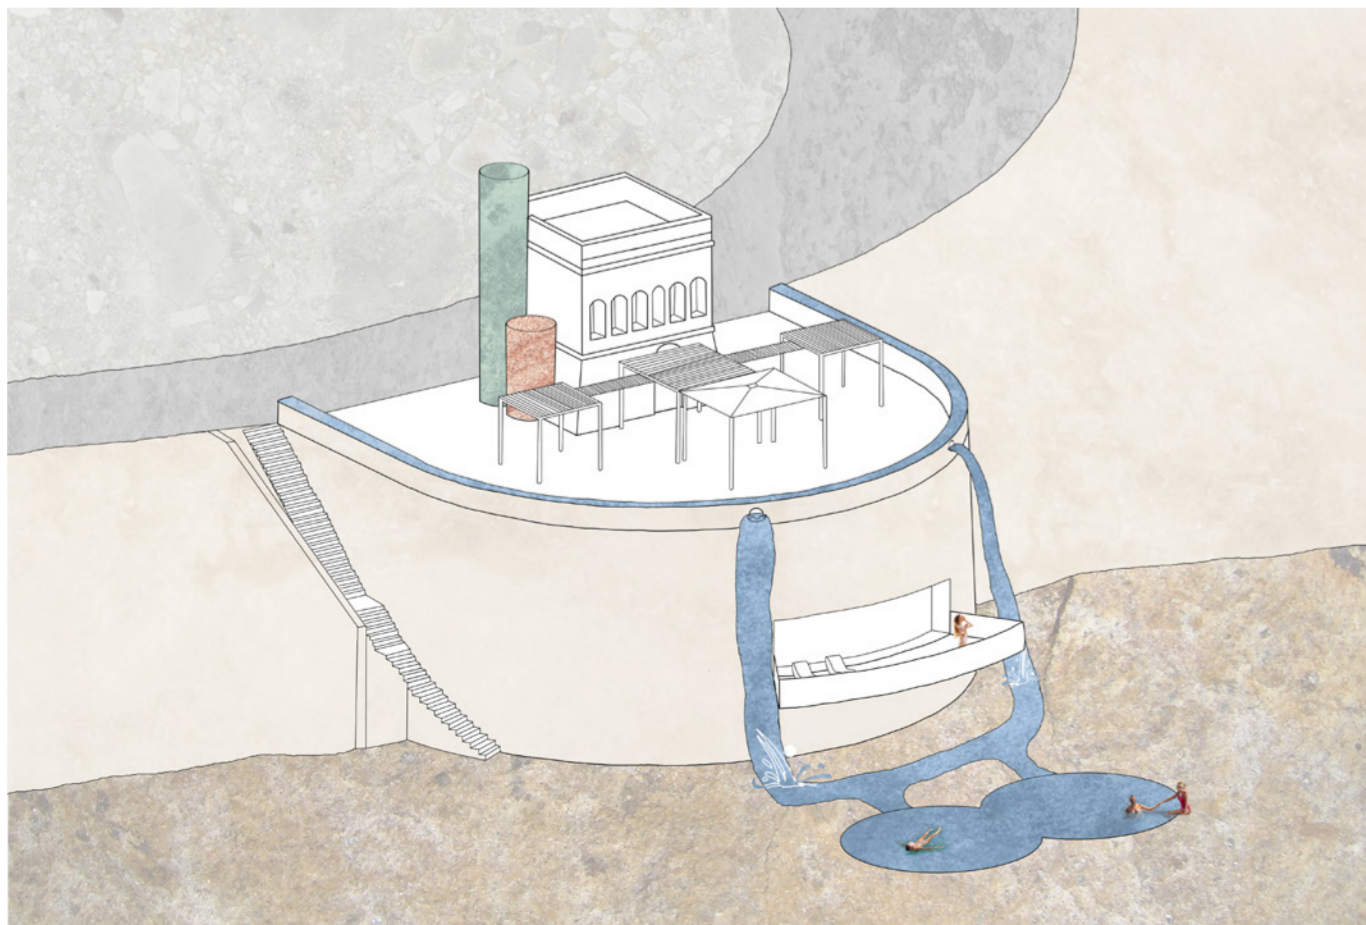

Dea, meaning Goddess in Latin, houses a wellness spa dedicated to women's health. Nestled quietly in the subterranean, it provides a secluded haven where women can rejuvenate and reconnect with their inner radiance in a unique environment.

The spa offers a wide range of herbal fusions and aromatherapy treatments, tailored to each woman's unique health needs to promote holistic healing. Dea Sea Spa is committed to promoting social justice and hormone health. It aims to empower women by creating a space where they feel valued, respected, and cared for. Designed to be accessible and welcoming, the spa fosters a community of support and healing for all women.

Clay Sculptures

From Concept to Completion

Inspired by the revered historical artifact, "The Goddess of Malta," from the Megalithic Temples of Malta, I have incorporated bespoke sculptures into the design. These sculptures pay homage to the island's rich history and serve as a tribute to the timeless strength and beauty of women. The sculptures celebrate the beauty of the female form, embracing and highlighting the voluptuous in a way that promotes body positivity and self-confidence.
