

CREATIVE COLLECTIVE

Creative Incubator & Art Studio

Sadie Scott

The 'Creative Collective' will provide students, graduates and entrepreneurs in creative fields to flourish by developing their skills in the private and group workspaces, gaining access to professionals, showcasing their work and joining part of a creative community

South Elevation
Queen Street

PROJECT AGENDA

Thousands of creative graduates hope to kickstart their career in the creative industries, but the coronavirus pandemic has directly impacted their job prospects by weakening the cultural economy. The Creative Collective Incubator will aim to provide affordable workspaces for individuals and businesses in the creative Industry. Issues that arise from working alone include isolation, financial difficulties, lack of motivation/communication but working in the incubator would help to resolve these issues by provide a space for creatives to work independently, with the choice to socially interact and collaborate with one another if desired.

Project Aims

- 1) Reduce the gap between the University and 'real life' opportunities by creating a more explicit overlap of expertise between the design studio and professional practice
- 2) Encourage the transaction of skills and inspiration between people using the incubator, as well as with the general public
- 3) Boost Oxford's creative community by providing affordable space for creative individuals and public spaces for community involvement

ART STUDIO

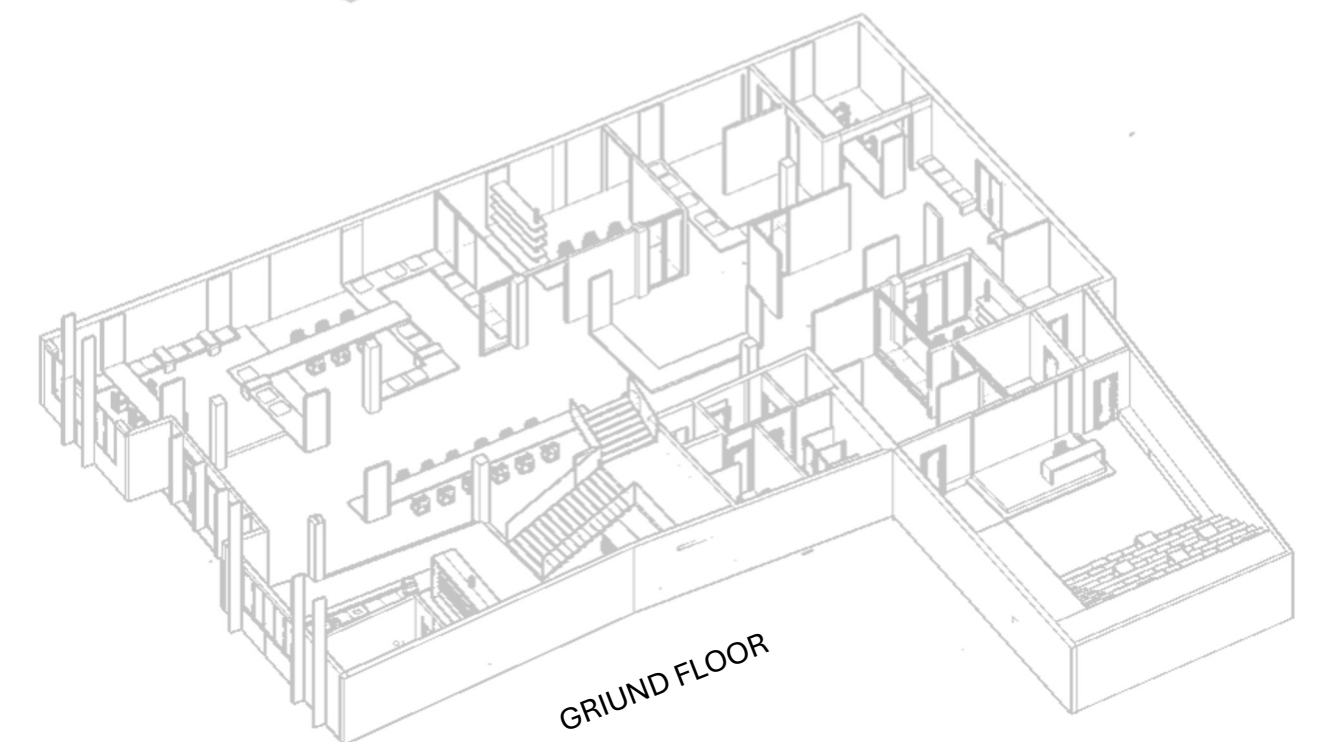

GALLERY

The Clarendon Centre
Queen Street
Oxford Oxfordshire
OX1 3JD

The application seeks to innovate the 1980's CLARENDON shopping centre and replace with a new ART CENTRE to provide social space, office space and exhibition space.

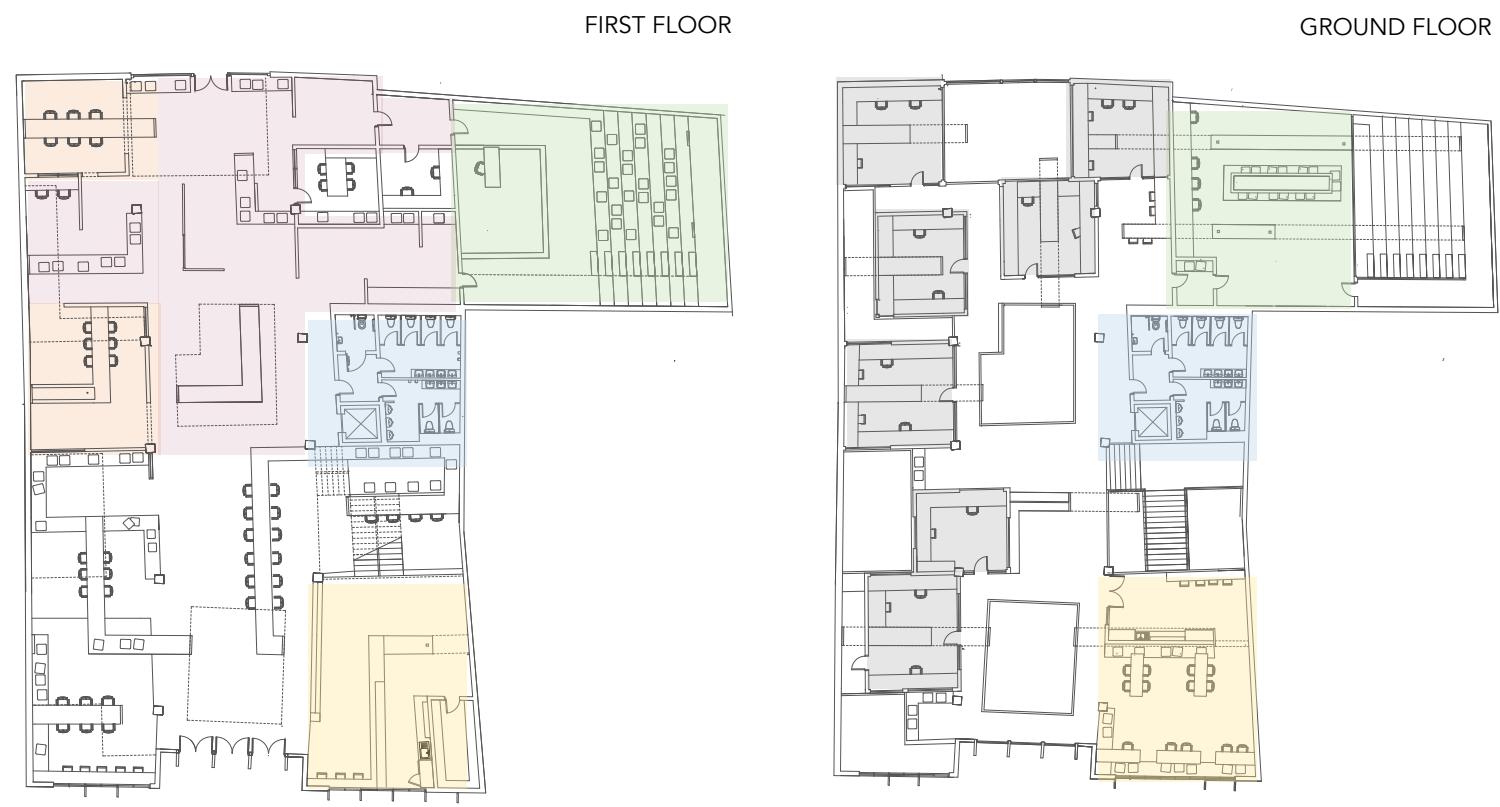

PROJECT DESIGN

SPATIAL FUNCTION

- GALLERY
- AUDITORIUM
- W/C
- GROUP WORKSPACE
- SOCIAL SPACES
- PRIVATE WORKSPACE
- BAR / KITCHEN

FURNITECTURE

