

The Origin / A collaboration with artist Ben Judd and the Stanley Picker Gallery

The Origin is a live project formed by artist Ben Judd, a fellow of the Stanley Picker Gallery collaborating with students of Kingston School of Art. For this ambitious project, local residents, community groups, students and academics will collaborate with Judd to create an adaptable floating structure which will initially travel along the River Thames. Interior Design course has been approached by Ben Judd to design a flexible community space on the deck and within the interior of the boat where local communities can come together for various activities like workshops, talks or performances.

Exterior

Exterior Canopy Model at 1:20

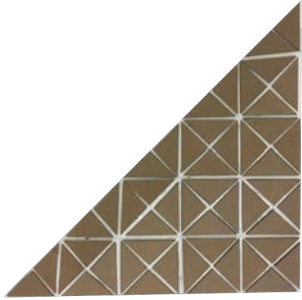

Exterior Canopy Detail (Not to Scale)

Boat Model at 1:50

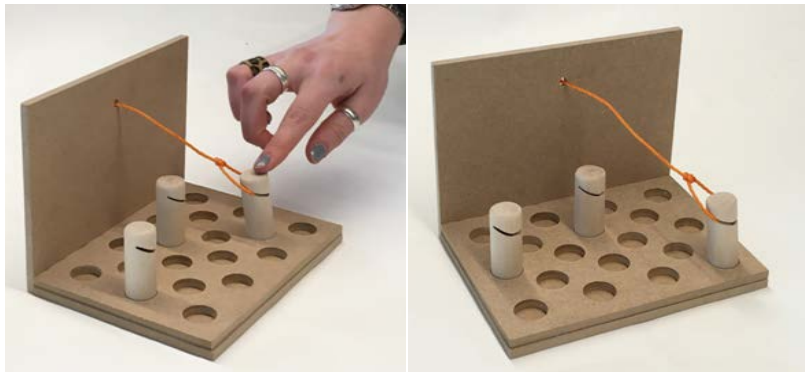

Interior

Testing the interior curtain at 1:20

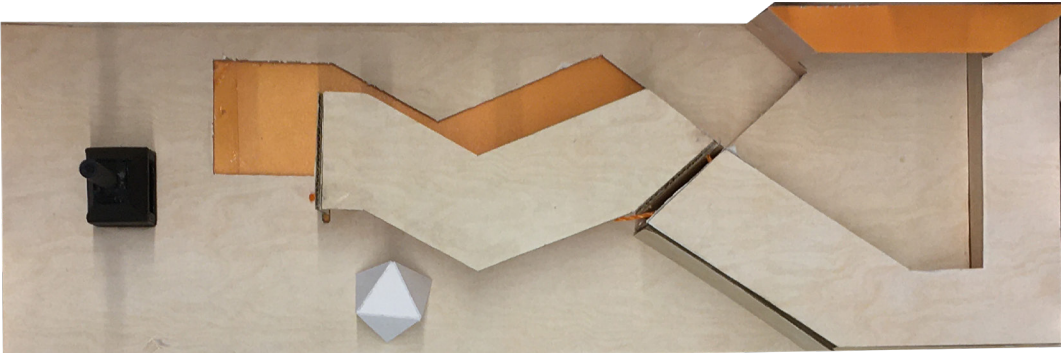

Model at 1:20

Peg and Rope Furniture Detail at 1:5

Section Through Interior Model at 1:20

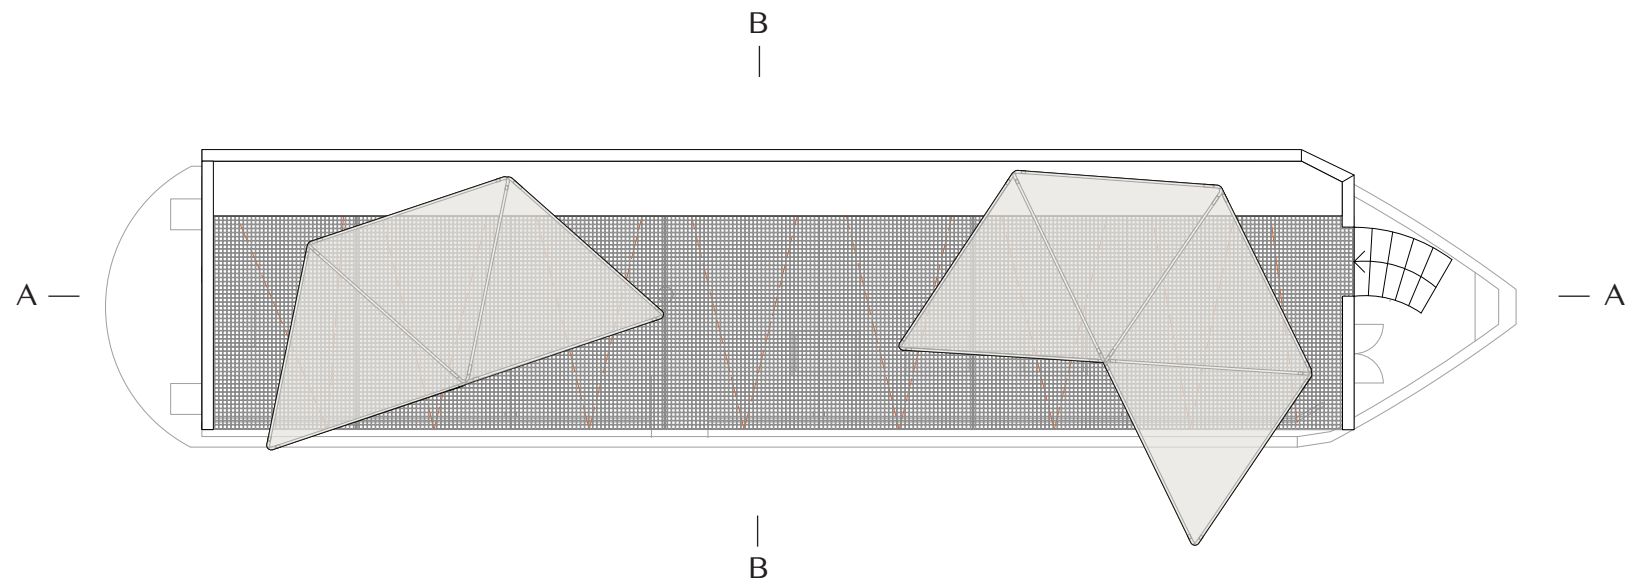

Floor Plan Model at 1:20

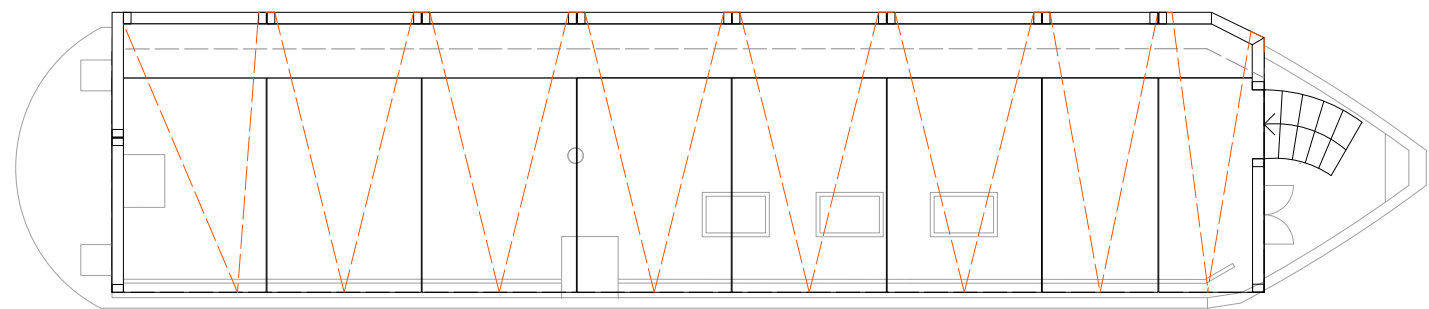

Interior Curtain at 1:20

Our two teams came together, and we combined our proposals for the exterior and the interior design of the boat. Exterior of the design includes a flexible collapsible canopy structure and fixed bench seating on the deck. The interior includes a raised platform and a collapsible structure that can be used as a table or a bench with storage and a fold-able screen.

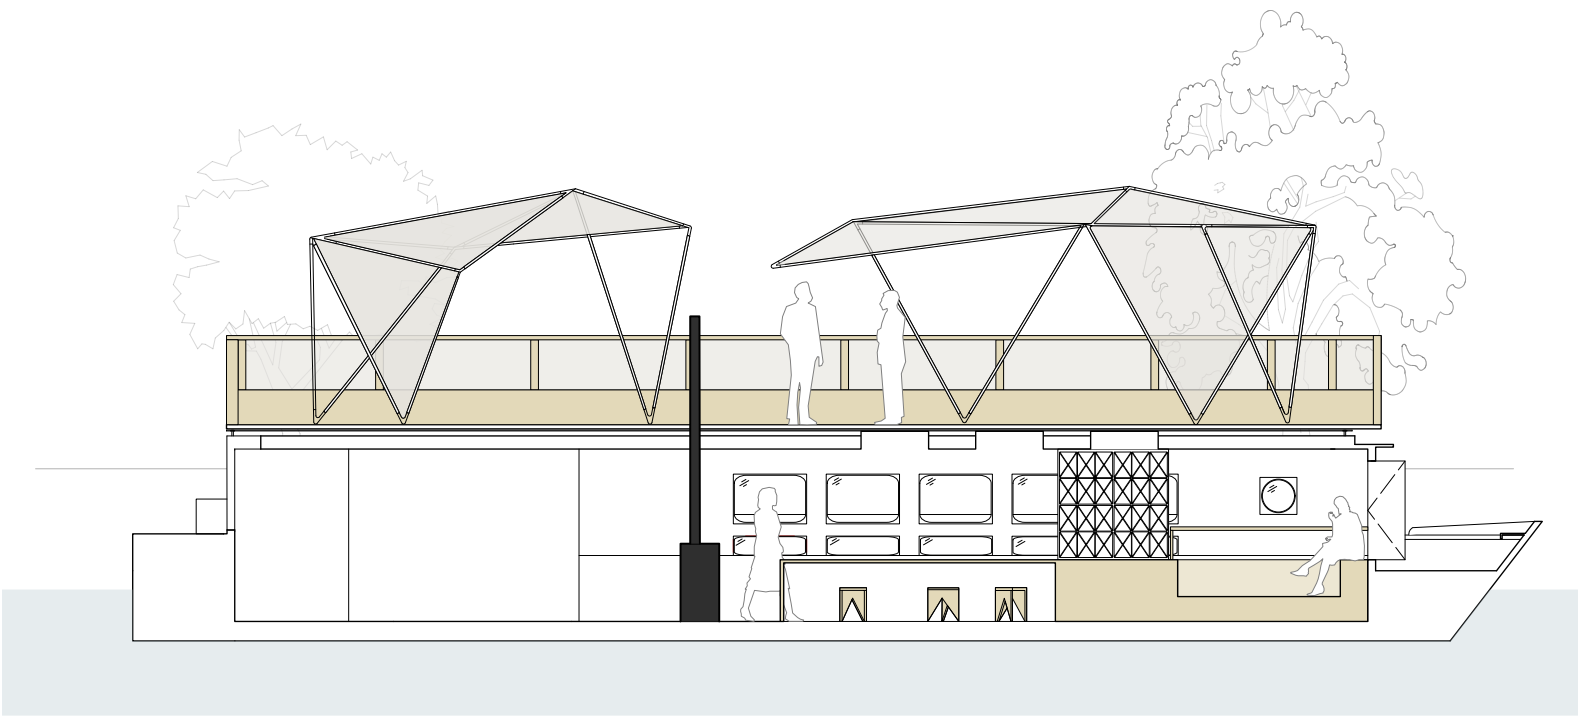

Drawings

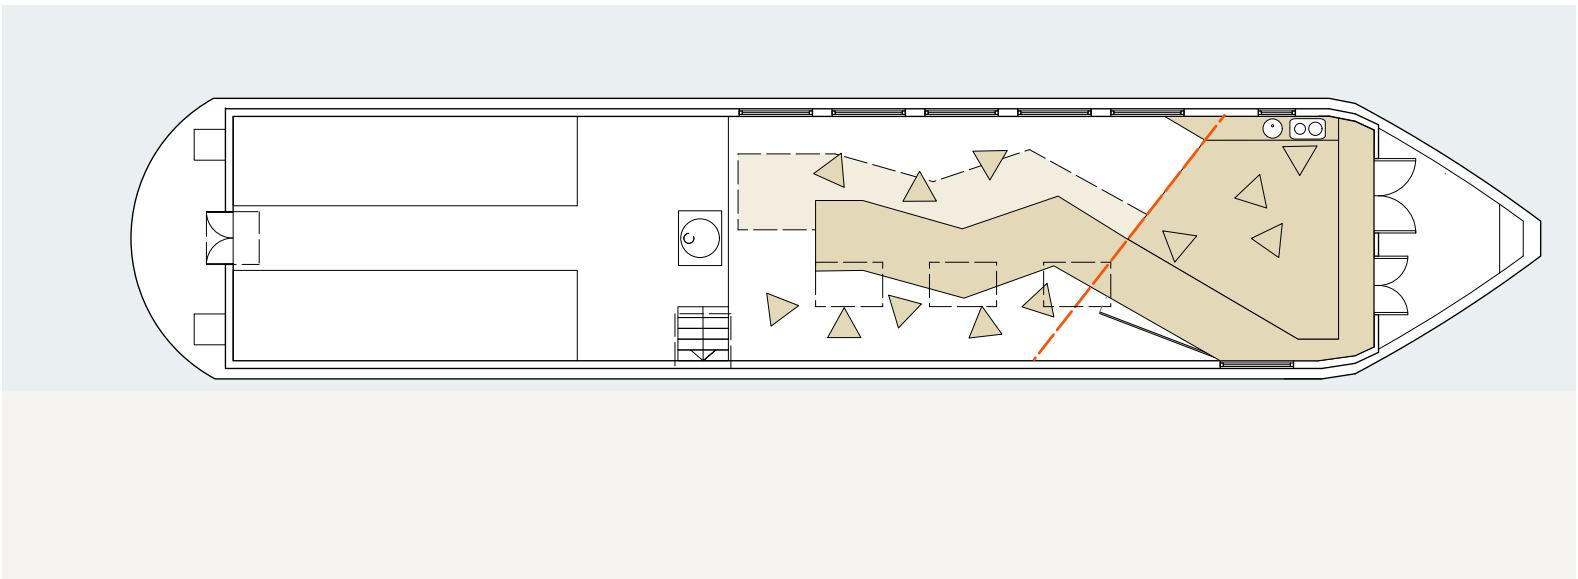

Exterior Plan at 1:100

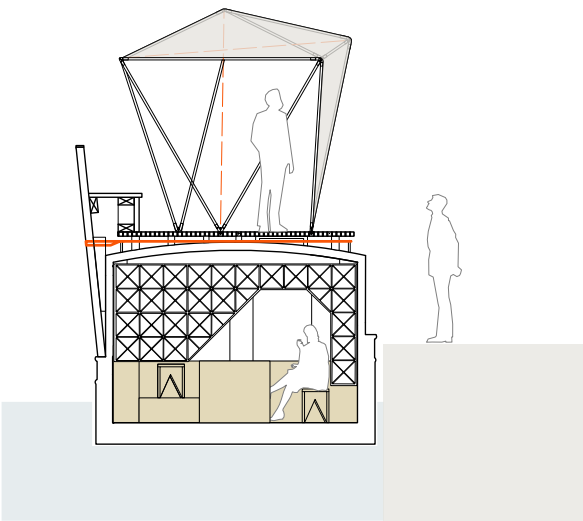

Beneath the Platform at 1:100

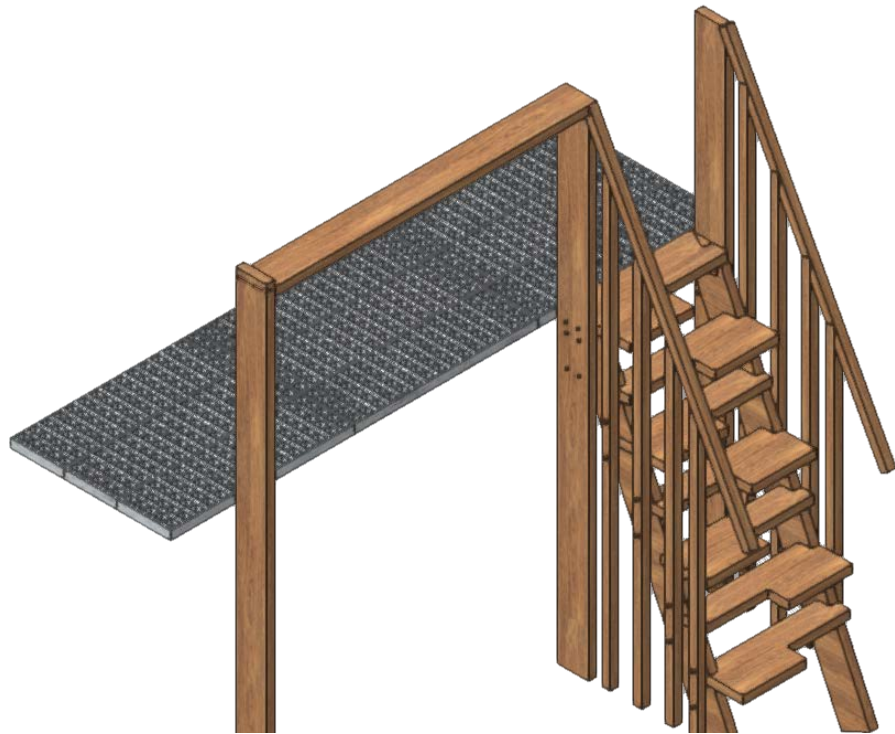

Section AA at 1:100

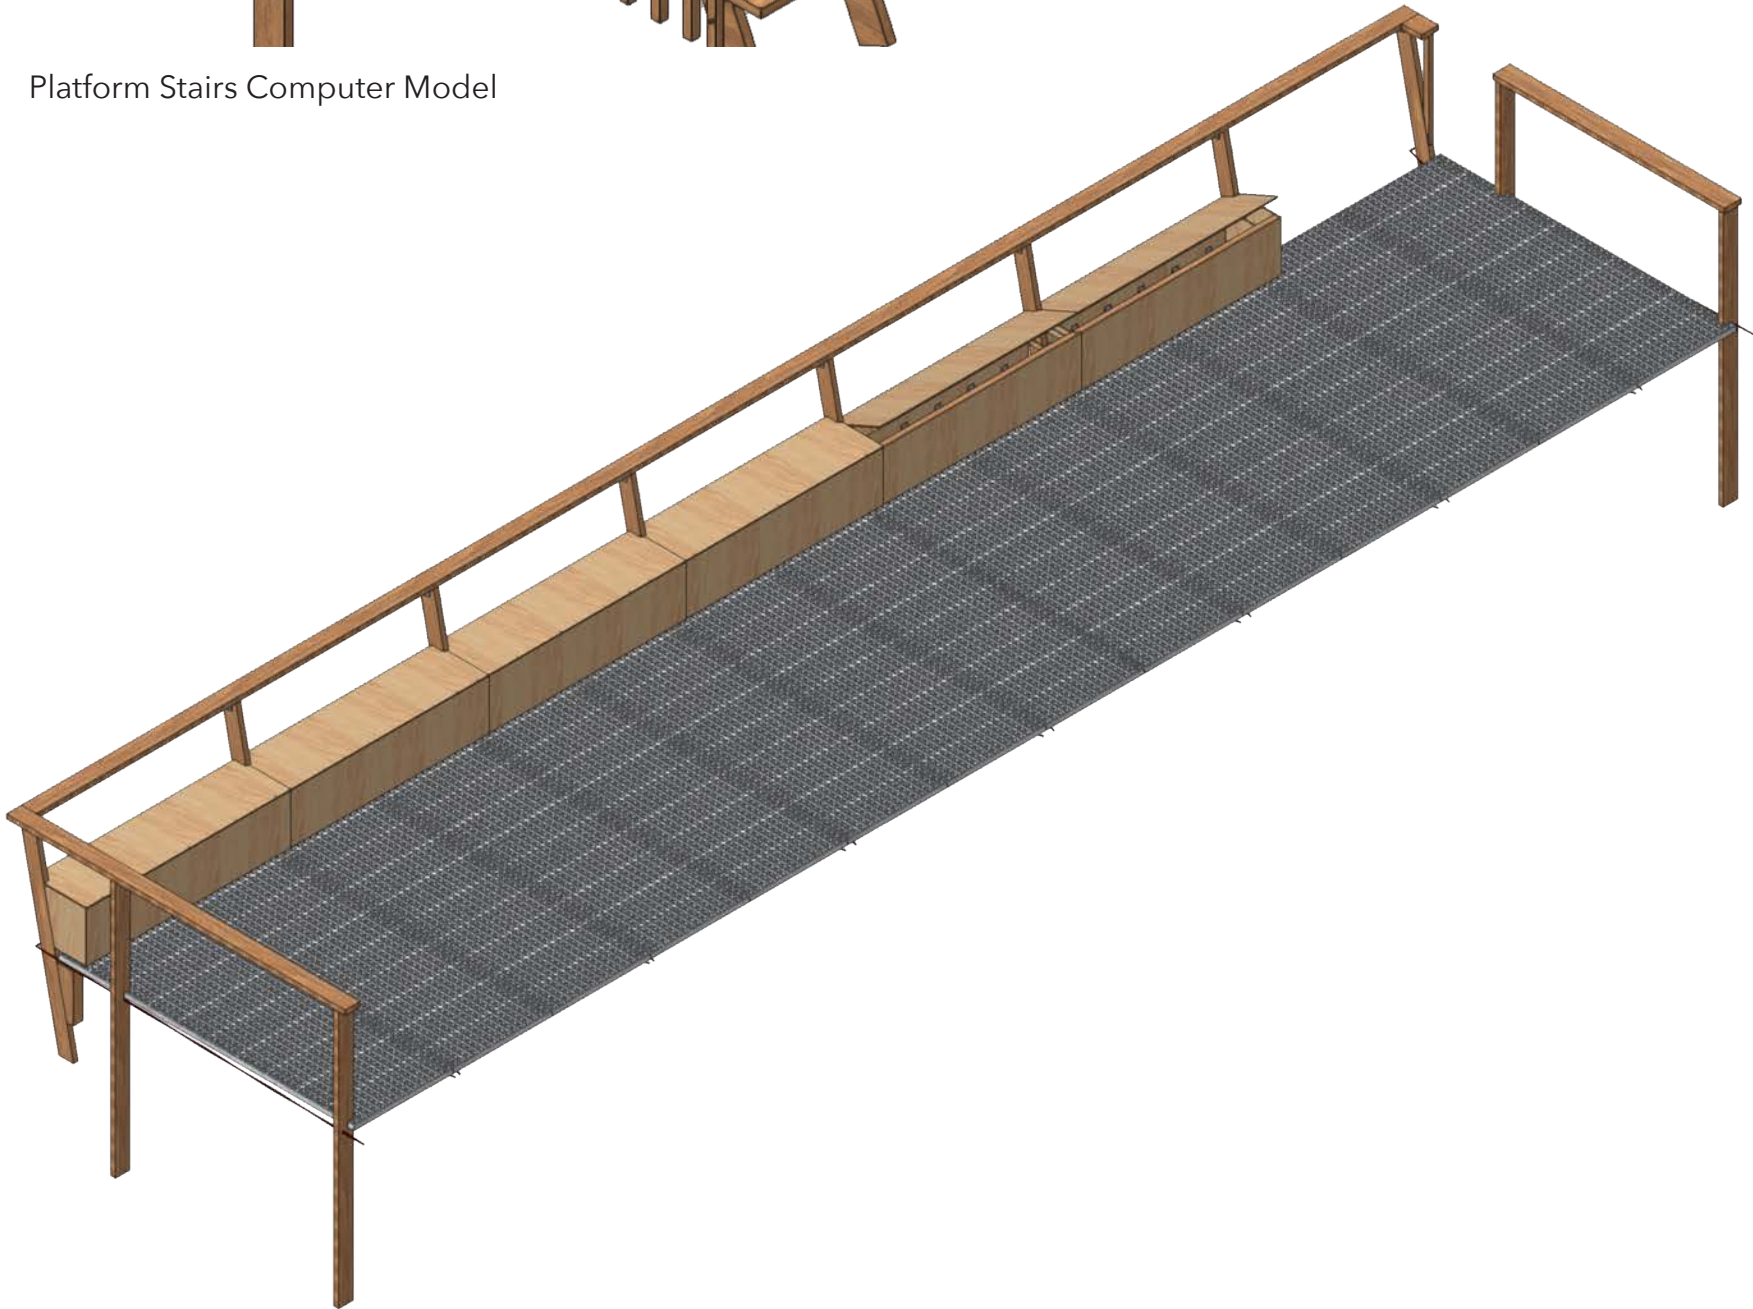

Interior Plan at 1:100

Section BB at 1:100

Platform Stairs Computer Model

Platform Bench and Balustrade Computer Model

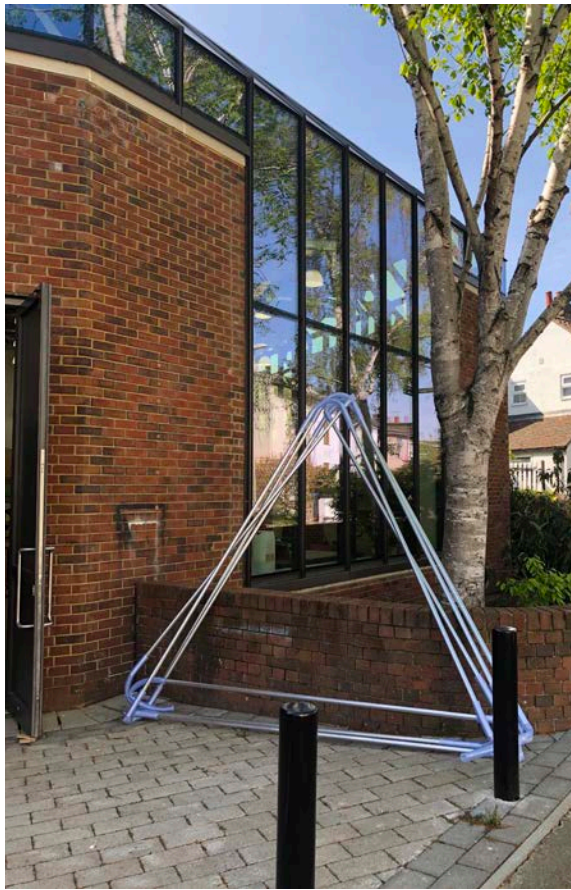

The construction stages of the project took place during the pandemic. In these challenging conditions we collaborated with a structural engineer, members of the Stanley Picker gallery and 121 collective to make our designs a reality.

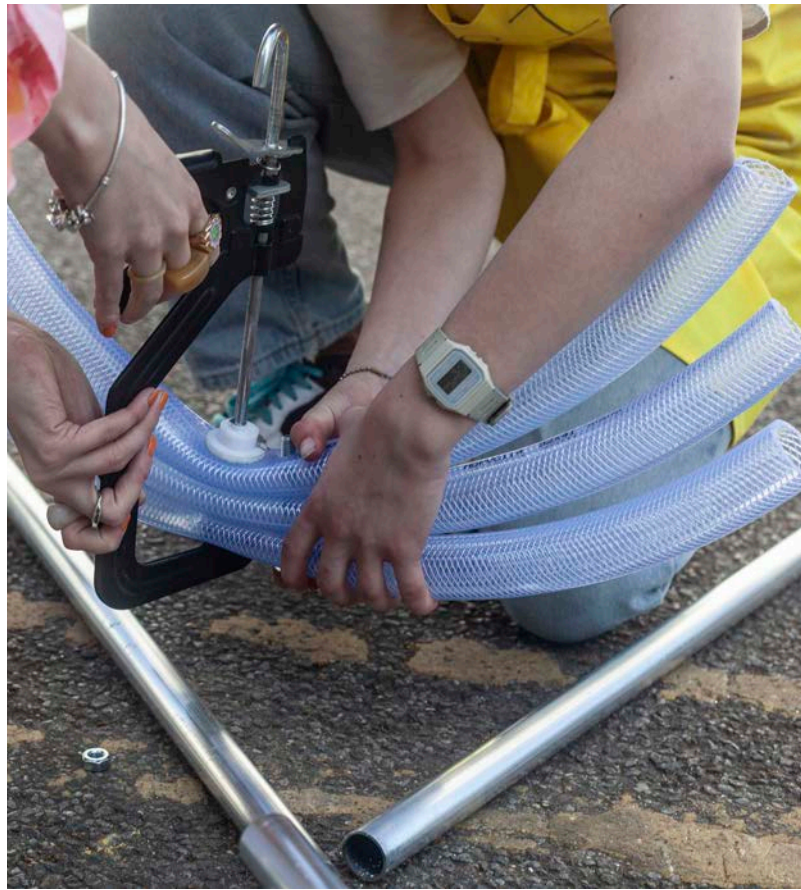

Exterior Construction

The Owner of the Boat With The Platform Decking Attached

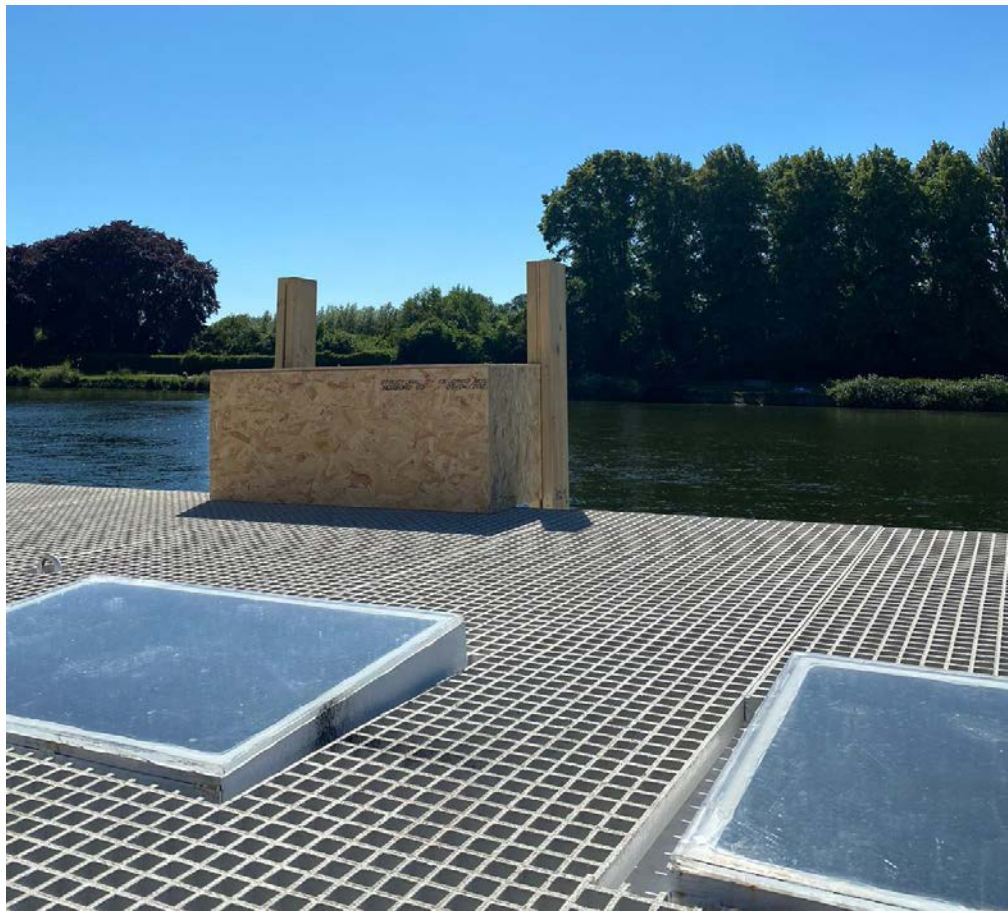

Making of an Exterior Canopy

Putting up a Canopy on the Decking

Testing the Bench on the Deck With Members of 121 Collective

Interior Construction

Interior Table

Interior Table as a Bench

Interior Stool

Interior Curtain at 1:20

Section of the Interior Curtain at 1:1 to Test the Folding Method

